THE SOURCE FOR SENIORS

The Area Agency on Aging of Western Michigan (AAAWM)'s mission is to provide older adults and adults living with a disability an array of services designed to promote independence and dignity in their homes and their communities. AAWM is The Source for Seniors in Allegan, Ionia, Kent, Lake, Mason, Mecosta, Montcalm, Newaygo, and Osceola counties. Together with our partners, through the Older Americans Act and Kent County Senior Millage, and through in-house programs such as Care Management and the MI Choice Medicaid Waiver (MI Choice), we help provide person-centered care that empowers individuals to age in place.

PROGRAMS & SERVICES TO SUPPORT ALL

The Area Agency on Aging of Western Michigan values diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI); which is why we welcome individuals from all walks of life to work, partner, or participate with us. As an agency, we strive to provide an environment where all involved feel valued, celebrated, and heard. By committing to DEI, we foster growth and innovation while fulfilling our mission.

WHAT WE DO

AAAWM connects adults to quality services that promote and preserve their dignity, independence, and well-being. Also, we coordinate support and education for caregivers and lead advocacy efforts on behalf of older adults.

HOW WE DO IT

AAAWM is a 501(c) 3 nonprofit organization. Services are funded through federal funding, the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services, the Bureau of Aging, Community Living, and Supports, and the Kent County Senior Millage.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

AAAWM Board of Directors consists of elected officials and older adults from our nine-county region and the City of Grand Rapids. Board Members provide leadership to the organization and ensure the agency is fulfilling the mission of helping older adults and those with disabilities live with independence and dignity.

WHY WE DO WHAT WE DO

A MESSAGE FROM OUR CEO

Kendrick Heinlein, Area Agency on Aging of Western Michigan

In my role, I often envision the future of the Area Agency on Aging of Western Michigan (AAAWM). How will our goals as an agency change? How will the needs of the seniors we serve evolve?

It can be easy to get caught up in moving forward without looking back. While considering this year’s annual report, we wanted to encompass this forward progress, while also honoring and celebrating where we’ve been over the last year and how our programs have evolved to where they are today. I’m proud of the innovative services and our outstanding Older Americans Act (OAA) and Kent County Senior Millage (KCSM) partners who are essential in providing this one-on-one care.

Ultimately, studies through AARP indicate that 3 out of 4 older adults wish to age in place and our services wrap around seniors and persons with disabilities so they can live in the setting of their choice. Through our agency and its partner network, caregivers are supported on their journey, and advocates diligently press for meaningful senior priorities to safeguard these services. There is no one-size-fits-all to aging, but we strive to provide person-centered care where individuals are given autonomy in the resources and programming they choose.

So, let’s take a look together, at where we’ve been, where we are, and where we’re going as we envision aging and the future of AAAWM.

WHERE WE'VE BEEN

FOUNDATIONAL SERVICES

The foundational services that go to support older adults are paramount to their independence while also bringing relief to caregivers. MORE THAN A MEAL

Home delivered and congregate meals are more than a meal. They provide nutrition while allowing for social interaction and someone regularly checking in. Other meal options, such as food pantries and the Community Food Club provide choice and autonomy for individuals to make meals themselves.

IT STARTS WITH A PHONE CALL

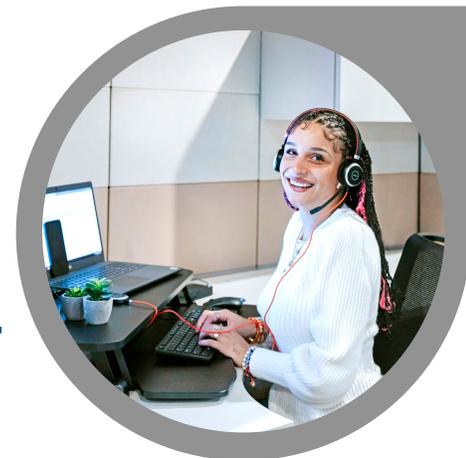

Outreach and assistance connects individuals to essential resources. In a recent example with United Way's 2-1-1, Belinda's life took a turn she never imagined -- she found herself homeless after a series of health setbacks. She felt lucky to have her car to sleep in, but this caused blood clots and frequent hospital visits. A call to 2-1-1 began Belinda's path toward renewed independence. After a 2-1-1 specialist connected with Belinda's nurse case manager, they were able to help her apply for housing assistance, and in June 2022, Belinda moved into her new apartment.

FILLING GAPS IN CARE

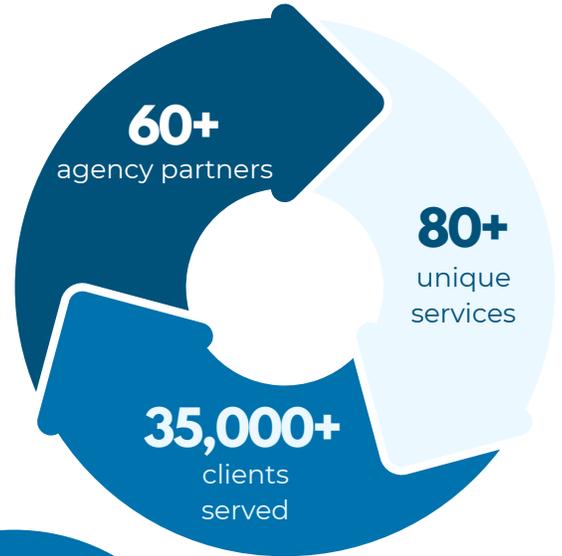

Each year consideration is given to how services come together as a comprehensive system; eliminating gaps in care, coming alongside caregivers, and allowing seniors and persons with disabilities to stay engaged in their communities. Research has shown improved physical and mental health for older adults that stay engaged in enjoyable activities.

HUBS FOR SERVICES

Commissions on Aging and senior centers throughout our nine-county region act as one-stop shops for seniors providing activities and connections to resources. These hubs give older adults a sense of community while keeping them active and engaged. Special attention is also given to the staff who provide compassionate and skilled care for clients both at the centers and receiving services throughout the counties.

AIDS FOR INDEPENDENCE

Funding goes to support mobility and adaptive equipment for such things as walkers, bath equipment, hoist lifts, scooters, power and manual wheelchairs, and assistive devices. These aids give individuals the assistance and freedom to move safely throughout their homes and communities.

WHERE WE ARE

INNOVATIVE PROGRAMMING

The way that our OAA and KCSM partner networks support one another and problem-solve together, especially throughout the pandemic, has been outstanding. Their steadfast commitment to older adults in our region is apparent, and 2022's partners embodied this same dedication. They've come up with innovative programming to meet emerging needs including programs such as Grandparents Raising Grandchildren, Healthy IDEAS to support caregivers, low vision counseling, crisis meal solutions, and many more.

OVERCOMING BARRIERS

The pandemic exposed barriers for seniors and caregivers alike. One key issue became access to technology and knowledge of how to use it. The Senior Technology Support Program through Senior Neighbors began in 2022 offering workshops, one-on-one consultations, and a device lending library to provide seniors with the skills to be able to access resources across the internet and connect with friends and family from afar.

The mental health of seniors also came to the forefront during the pandemic due to social isolation. Reliance Integrated Wellness began offering therapy services to individuals in-person, in their homes, and virtually to meet clients where they are. A 72-year-old client was isolated with feelings of depression and shared the following:

Senior Neighbors Technology Workshop

“

Talking to Lauren (my therapist), has given me the confidence to go do some of the things I used to do. My experience has been uplifting. Lauren has helped me find my own answers and she has guided me to find those answers that ultimately work best for me.

CHANGING THE NARRATIVE

Oftentimes aging has a negative connotation, yet through services that focus on independence comes a shift in mindset. The support you may need as you age could vary, but being able to choose, trust, and rely on these services brings the power of choice. And through this choice, you can find joy in the journey of getting older.

Programs emphasize social engagement and community connections through a robust network of services. For instance, Engaging Wellness programming specializes in endurance, strength, and fall prevention for older adults. Individuals are able to celebrate aging while building community in classes.

ADDRESSING A GROWING NEED

94%

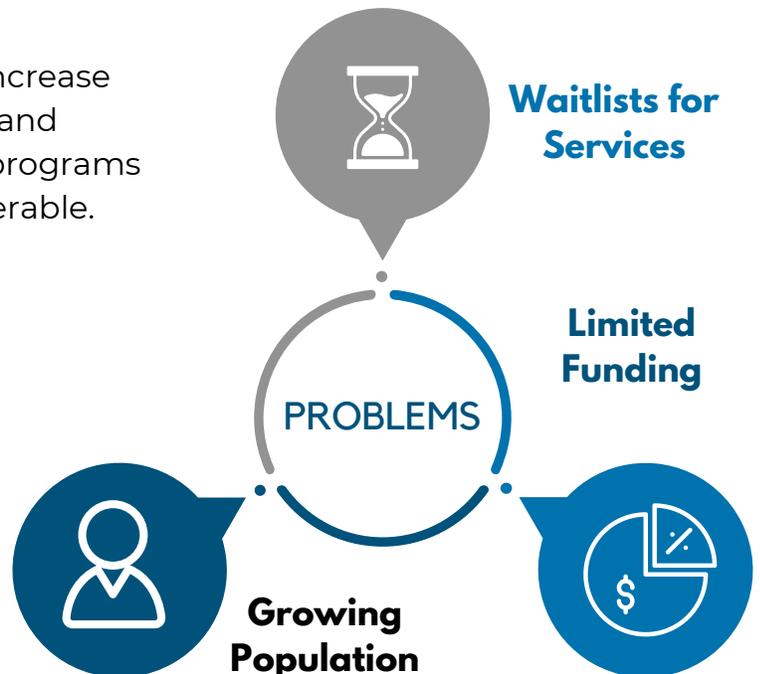

AAAs nationally have seen an increase in service requests. Due to this and stagnate funding, waitlists for programs can occur, leaving seniors vulnerable.

Funding is limited to address growing service costs and the direct care workforce shortage.
